Old Peppermint Remedies.

Peppermint drops have long been the unfailing comforter of old ladiesand others-but in recent times we seem to have got past needing some of the medicinal qualities for which peppermint oil was held in high esteem in bygone centuries. Gerarde in his Herbale (1633) advises the use of it either "poured into the eares with honeyed water" or "taken inwardly" as a certain specific "against scolopendres, beare-worms, sea-serpents, scorpions and the bitings of mad dogs!"-London Chronicle.

YOUNG MOTHER IS CALLED

Miss Elizabeth Bremmer, director of Mrs. John Stewart, Wife of Soo Line Employe, Passes Away Tuesday Morning.

Mrs. Edith Stewart, wife of John Stewart, a passenger brakeman on the Soo line, died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mattie Liscomb, 1108 Michigan avenue, at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Mrs. Stewart had been very poorly since last December, when she suffered a nervous breakdown. At that time the family home was in Minneapolis, but she was brought here the latter part of February and had since received every care and attention from he relatives and friends.

Edith Liscomb was a native of Amherst township, where she was born 28 years ago. Some twelve years ago she married Geo. Stickney, a railroad man, and shortly thereafter they moved to Montana. In April, 1908, Mr. Stickney received fatal injuries while in the performance of his duties, leaving the widow and one daughter, Georgia, who was then three years of age. Shortly following her husband's death, Mrs. Claude Freeman, aged nine, son of Stickney went to Minneapolis and until E. H. Freeman, 117 North Division her marriage to Mr. Stewart last August was assistant matron at the Soldiers' Home near that city, being in direct charge of the office.

Besides the husband, daughter and the wheels passed over his stomach, he laged mother, the deceased lady leaves is apparently none the worse for the one brother and three sisters, Glen Liscomb of Glasgow, Mont., Mrs. Floyd Alban and Mrs. Arthur Hartle morning from a month's trip through of this city, Mrs. Ed. For those who seek relief from kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder ills, Doan's Kidney Pills offer hope of relief and the proof is here in Stevens Point, the same as everywhere. Stevens Point people have used Doan's and Stevens Point people recommend Doan's, the kidney remedy used in America for fifty years. Why suffer? Why run the risk of dangerous kidney ills - fatal Bright's disease. Here's Stevens Point proof. Investigate it.

Charles H. Curtis, 711 Church street, Stevens Point, says: "I suffered from pain in the small of my back and could hardly get around. It was all I could do to get out of bed and dress myself in the morning. I hardly knew what ailed me, but finally concluded that my kidneys were weak. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from Taylor's drug store and they acted promptly in relieving me. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills off and on since and have always found that they done their work in a satisfactory way. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills before. and I have since heard of others whom they have helped greatly."

Casserole Cookery.

A casserole is a deep, earthenware voice.-Exchange. pan with a lid to it.

After buying it fill it with cold water and a little soda, put it in the oven and let it remain there till the water is nearly boiling. This will cleanse it thoroughly and make it last much

If you use a gas oven put the casserole in while it is still quite cool. If you suddenly put it into a very fierce oven the casserole may crack.

Be careful where you place the casserole when taking it out of the oven. If it is stood in the cold sink or any other cold place it may crack. If you remember these few hints

Baking Hints.

Do not cover rising bread in bowls and tins with a dry cloth. Instead cover with a damp cloth which has been wrung out in warm water. In cold weather the damp cloth should be placed over a dry cloth. As a result the dough will not dry on of price will be fixed by the court.

the top, and the loaves when baked will be much more uniform. To prevent holes appearing in brown bread prick twice with a needle, once when loaves are placed in tins and once immediately before the loaves are placed in the oven.

For Bread Makers.

Bread must always be made in a warm place, and all the ingredients must be warmed before they are combined. This is particularly important when you are making yeast bread.

Yeast is a little plant which begins to grow when it finds itself in a warm, damp place, and as it grows it puffs up the flour and makes the bread light. If you let it get cold you will stop its growth.

Eggs En Cocottes. Butter fireproof cups and put two tablespoonfuls of cream into each; then on this carefully break a newly laid egg. Sprinkle a little salt, pepper and chopped parsley on the top. Place the cups in a pan of water which comes halfway up the cups and put a piece of buttered paper over the top. Allow them to steam till the eggs are just set; then serve immediately in the

HereIstheLow20thCentury The Machine You Should Own

F all spreaders we could handle, we have chosen to sell the Low 20th Century manure spreader, because we have found, as you will find, that it is all-around the most satisfactory machine on the market. It is strong and durable, simply constructed, convenient to load and to operate, spreads the manure just as you want it, and is made in several sizes.

The Low 20th Century beater and apron driving mechanism is powerful, simple, and protected from injury. Differentials in the rear axles allow even spreading on corners, while turning either way. There are five distinct feeds. The multiple disk allows a wide range, varying from two to sixteen loads per acre. Apron is operated by worm and gear construction that assures uniform spreading.

This apron and beater drive construction has many good features that we can show you here-features that have proved their worth on many farms.

Don't fool yourself! Not every man who is broke is unworthy of his man-

It's just the other way with the chap worth while, and Jack Ruford was almost as good, decent and clean a fellow as his sweetheart thought he

Mabel Ainsworth—that's the girl with the unerring judgment-had a father when Jack failed in business.

Mr. Ainsworth instituted proceedings with his daughter, Mabel, who loved Jack, broke or whole, and for reasons known only to the feminine mind did not hesitate to say so. Mr. Ainsworth tried to reason.

He was a lawyer in good practice, and his logic was excellent. Mabel remarked that she loved Jack. Her father began to intimate something heavy about filial love, duty, obedience, and so forth.

Mabel repeated that she loved Jack. The father sought Jack and talked to the young man in a manner for which Jack would have knocked the talk out of him had he not been Mabel's father.

and thrust an open letter under the proboscis of his reluctant father-in-law. "Well, what is it all about?" asked Ainsworth after he had read the typewritten lines.

"Look at this!" commanded Ruford

"It's this," replied Jack, more in pity than in ire. "The Wetmore Drug company of New York offers me the sole agency for Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Iowa"-

"Yes, yes," interrupted Mabel's father, with offensive impatience.

"Yes, yes-sir-when you talk to me, Mr. Ainsworth!" corrected Jack sternly. "Yes, yes!" repeated Ainsworth without affirming anything in particu-

"There you go again!" snapped the potential conqueror of the drug trade of four progressive states "How many times shall I have to tell you that it's 'yes, sir,' to me from you? Please do not forget that again, my dear Mr. Ainsworth. By the way, how much money will it take to buy your daughter from you, with your aborigina! ideas of paternal ownership?"

"Not an infernal red cent!" roared Ainsworth. "Nor a yellow million nor a stack of greenbacks as high as this postoffice-from you, sir! I'll sir you! Even if you had the ability to make any appreciable part of it, you couldn't have my daughter now for all the money in the world, sir!

"Are you through?" asked Ruford calmly. The lawyer nodded violently. "All right, then," proceeded the young man. "I'm really surprised at you, Mr. Ainsworth. And with your legal attainments too. Mabel is of age. You know that, I know it and she knows it. Listen to me! I can walk down this Main street three blocks, turn into Locust and walk four and a half more, stop at 416, enter, wait four minutes for a certain young lady to put on her hat and coat, walk out, up Locust one and a half blocks, ring a bell, enter house, emerge married. And you know it!"

"I know it!" gasped the hapless fa-

"A man who can do that, Mr. Ainsworth," proceeded Jack unfeelingly, 'must be handled with care. Let us, then, try kindness."

"I always thought, Jack," said the lawyer in his best appealing voice, "that at heart you were a very decent young fellow.'

"I am," agreed Jack modestly. "My purpose being to get down to a calm discussion of the differences between us, I shall not refer to your wonderful restraint of expression of your good opinion of me."

Both men laughed at this sally.

"Now, Mr. Ainsworth," proceeded the young man pleasantly, "you are mostly right about me and would be all right if you weren't so infernally vigorous in expressing yourself. I have no right to marry Mabel in my present circumstances, until I bave shown-mostly for my own satisfaction-that I can make money enough a year. When I come back, if I can show you $5,000 will that soften your

"Jack," replied Mabel's father with $5,000 of your own money, honestly earned, and if I don't drop dead at sight of it I'll consent."

"Mind you," said Jack as they shook hands on it, "I am doing this thing out of pure magnanimity of soul. You understand that, don't you?"

"Fully," acknowledged Mr. Ains-

It was on the three hundred and fiftieth night of his quest that Jack arrived at his hotel in St. Louis, bubbling over with enthusiasm. He joked with the clerk as he registered with a flourish and staggered the beliboy who escorted him to his room with a fifty cent tip. After the minion had bowed himself out Jack threw himself on a chair and exultantly opened his at sacrifice. Six dollars and eighty cents! suit case.

"It's all over, Mabelita!" he cried, addressing that young lady's photograph, for home on midnight train which he had pinned on his suit case a inner lid. "We've got it! We've got it! Jack sends his love. He is looking well. The Wetmore Drug company owes me , $5,140.50. Those last seven orders in Decatur give me $147.30 and make us cross the line, darling. Now for a run home to dear old Pillingsby to see you and get you to name the day."

salver. Jack looked uneasily first at the bearer, then at the message. He tore open the yellow envelope. He stared at the slip of paper he extracted from it, his eyes wide and incredulous. At last he roused himself, smoothed out the sheet and stared at it as though he hoped the very fixity of his gaze would change its tenor. "No," he mumbled hopelessly. "It's no use-it's there, it's there! 'Wetmore

Drug company asking compromise with creditors. Offer 20 cents on dollar.' He repeated it stupidly and with inane comments. His head sank down on the table, and he was lost in utter dejection.

Jack Ruford arrived in New York on the second night after the receipt of the crushing telegram. He entered a modest botel on a side street near Broadway and scowled at the attentive bellboy who relieved him of his suit

There was nothing for him to do but to think-until the morrow, when, Jack hoped, the offices of the Wetmore Drug company would be open. He ordered the bellboy to escort him and his baggage to the room assigned to him.

"What kind of a joint is this, anyway?" snarled the distracted young man as the bellboy set the wrong suit case on the table of the room. "This isn't my suit case."

"Oh, beg pardon, sir!" apologized the bewildered boy. "Isn't it?"

"No, it isn't, isn't it," mocked Jack angrily. "Take the thing away and fetch mine. Marked J. R."

The bellboy hastened away with the offending portmanteau, but soon returned, saying: "Sorry, mister. I brung it to the wrong room. It looked so much like yours." "Well, then, why the dickens don't you get it?" "That's the trouble," stammered the bellboy. "The lady says for you to come and get it yourself. She won't give it to me, sir." "Won't, hey? She won't, won't she?" demanded Jack furiously. "Take me to it, kid. I'll set her straight in two seconds-just exactly two seconds." The dazed boy led the irate guest down one corridor and up another and stopped before a door, marked 216. Jack knocked authoritatively, and a feminine voice called "Come in." The young man flung open the door.

"Madam," he began, icily stern. 'Mad-I-I''-

And then this prince of glib talkers suddenly lost the power of articulation, for Mabel Ainsworth slowly turned to face him, confirming the first wild guess, fear and hope which the sight of her figure had inspired.

"I think it very careless of you, Jack," began Mabel reproachfully, "to keep your suit case unlocked."

"Oh, it's all right this time," she reassured him. "Thinking it was mine, and as I never lock mine either, I opened it and saw-this."

She waved her hand toward her pho tograph resting in its conspicuous place against the inner lid of the suit case.

"I suppose," he said gloomily, "that: all is over, Mabel. I shall have to tional, the fellows who hunt, should give you up, darling. Billy Wetmore"me up on account of $6.80?"

"Six dollars and eighty cents! don't understand!" gasped Jack.

"Of course you don't. But that is all we are short on our five thou-

"I-I"- stammered her lover. Then with infinite gentleness: "It's 20 per cent, dear, one-fifth he offers. Under--just one thousand, dear, just one"-

"Oh, no, it isn't," she interposed impatiently. "You see, papa"-

"What has he been doing now?" asked Jack doubtfully.

"He saved the situation for you and himself," she assured him. "You see, I told papa very flatly that at the end of the year I would marry you anyway, money or no money"-

"Mabel, darling, I can't do it!" "Because you do not love me any more, Jack?" she asked cruelly.

"You know better than that, Mabel," he replied reproachfully.

"Forgive me, dearest," she said contritely. "I do know it." She tenderly placed one of her pink fingers on her conspicuous photograph. "As I was trouble was completely cured and I am saying-and, please, let us talk business, dear-papa, being assured that I would marry you anyway, proceeded, to support her. Now, I shall be gone lawyer-like, to save his face. When he learned that you-poor, overtrustful boy-were letting your monthly earnings stand with Mr. Wetmore he wrote that gentleman-whom, in the deep feeling, "if you ever show me first place, he had induced to offer you this place-all about why you were working so hard and induced him to send your monthly earnings to the Pillingsby National bank, where the money is now deposited in your name. But there is only $4,993.20, and papa's strong point as a lawyer always has been technicalities. So I came to New York-in some way-to get that $8.80. And, oh, Jack-my own dear, splendid, faithful Jack-we have to get it honestly or at least legally."

> One hour later (western time) Mr. William Ainsworth sat in the morris chair in his library, chuckling over the following telegram:

> Dear Papa-Jack is here at hotel. He just sold me his supply of drug samples Please deposit that amount to his credit in Pillingsby National bank and charge my allowance account. We are leaving Tell Mary Smith she will be bridesmaid.

strange that man has developed mechanics along all lines but those with which his own body works. Practically every motion we make is performed by the direct operation of levers, and living creatures are the only machines so built. Almost all these human levers are of one kind, that commonly called the third. There are three kinds of levers: (1) that in which the fulcrum is between the power and the weight, or resistance, as in a pair of scissors; (2) that in which the weight or resistance is between the fulcrum and the power, as in an oar; (3) that in which the power is between the fulcrum and the weight, as in a pair of grass clippers. I wish to inform you of the great benefit I bave derived from the use of Swamp-Root. I had been a sufferer for more than twenty years from kidpey and liver trouble and was almost constantly treated by the most eminent physicians who could only give me temporary relief. I had been in bed ten weeks when I began the use of Swamp-Root. Inside of twenty-four hours I could see that I had been greatly benefitted. I continued to use Swamp-Root until I had used several bottles when I readily felt that my old positive that any person suffering with kidney or liver trouble can be cured by the use of this preparation.

I am now in the best of health, better than I have been for ten years or more. I do not know how to express myself as strongly as I desire, in favor of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, as I am sure that it saved my life and that my good health is due entirely to this great remedy. I heartily recommend it to every sufferer and am confident they can be benefitted as I have been. It is a pleasure for me, gentlemen, to hand you this recommendation. MRS. H. J. THE TRAIN ROBBER TRIES TO HOLD UP THE GOOD JUDGE

HITTING the high places of public favor—the way news of "Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew, is getting around from friend to friend.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco-cut fine, short shred-seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting. Take a very small chew-less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and ficorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut." One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

AMERICA THRIVES IN WORLD CRISIS

Business Advance Felt From Atlantic to Pacific.

THRILLS THE STOCK MART

New York Exchange, Stirred to New Life, Abolishes Minimum Prices as Needless Defense-Helped by Big Foreign Trade.

Chicago, April 2.—Developments along lines of industrial activities throughout the United States were reported in greater volume and over wider territory on Wednesday than at any time since the first spurt of business at the beginning of the year. Reports came from the Montana and the lake copper districts telling of the opening of mines and smelting plants that have been closed or operating small shifts for months, and also that wage advances were being made among miners and other work-

From the steel districts around Chicago, in Ohio, Pennsylvania, and elsewhere similar reports of growing activity were heard. Dispatches telling of increased operations in New England ally. marked the one territorial extreme and the gains in industries on the Pacific coast marked the other.

The spirit of improvement in business and the securities markets was reflected throughout Chicago business circles. Bankers and business men concede strong evidences of a sharp revival in trade and finance. The reports received by them from all quarters told of greater activities.

Brokers' offices were crowded and enthusiasm ran high as the stock market advances seemed to presage approaching business prosperity.

Bankers and business men say the great demand the war has thrust upon the United States for practically everything it can produce will bring great prosperity to this country.

The immense trade balance of nearly $600,000,000 in favor of the United States seems to tell the tale. Gold country and the only check was the creation of huge credits here by the powers of the old world that are taking our merchandise and products of every description.

France has negotiated a loan of $50,000,000 in America, Germany a loan of $10,000,00, Great Britain is arranging for $100,000,000 and Russia is expected to come here for $25,000,-000 or possibly $50,000,000.

These countries are selling their securities in the United States and on terms of their sale the proceeds must be kept in this country as a credit against which purchases will be made. These credits mean enormous sales of everything in addition to the stuff that has already been taken from our shores and for which payment has been made.

One of the strongest evidences of the confidence American bankers have in the present and future financial position of the United States was reflected in the action taken by the New York stock exchange yesterday. when the governing committee abolished minimum trading prices. These were established as a safeguard against liquidation on December 15 last. The exchange had been reopened three days before after being closed for several months because of financial conditions due to the European war. The reasons of the committee for abolishing the minimum prices were: the minimum levels, making arbitrary limits useless. 2. Gains in American financial affairs and foreign trade have removed the danger of excessive liquidation.

As a result, trading on the stock exchange is restored to a normal basis. the supervising committee of three on duty since December 12 has been discharged, and the governing committee torney-General Gregory in a brief filed again is in control.

KAISER AND LEADERS HOLD WAR COUNCIL IN BERLIN

Emperor and Field Marshal Von der Goltz Discuss Situation-Dardanelles Defense Said to Be Safe.

London, April 1.—Germany's next move in the military field-because some stroke either in the East or West is expected before the allies attempt their spring advance - is at present the chief subject of speculation and conjecture.

According to reports reaching here from Petrograd the German emperor is now at Berlin holding a war council with Field Marshal von der Goltz, the German military commander of Concommenced to flow swiftly into this stantinople, and other leaders, and is planning a new campaign to offset the fall of Przemysl and to meet situation in the Dardanelles.

> There has been nothing of an outstanding nature in either theater of the land operations since the surrender of the Austrian fortress. Fighting, fierce but indecisive, is raging in the Carpathians and there has been a succession of battles in northern Poland in which both sides claim to have been victorious.

> The official German statement of Tuesday asserts that 2,000 Russians were killed and 3,000 captured in an engagement at Krasnopol. In the German occupation of Tauroggen, it is claimed that 1,000 prisoners were taken. Russian attacks at other points are said to have been repulsed.

> The latest statement from the Petrograd war office is that the German offensive movement in this region has been checked.

The Austrians admit the Russians have assumed a vigorous offensive in the Carpathians, but insist all their attacks have been repulsed.

ANSWER TO HARVESTER BRIEF.

U. S. Says Company Is Unduly Restrictive of Competitive Conditions.

Washington, March 31 .-- "The Harvester company is a combination of able competitors together occupying a preponderant position in trade and commerce among the states in har-1. Most ruling prices are far above vesting machines and other agricultural implements, and therefore, by its necessary effect unduly restricts competitive conditions in violation of the antitrust act.

"The Harvester company is also a combination unduly restrictive of competitive conditions because formed with specific intent to monopolize."

These are the grounds on which Aton Monday, asked the United States Supreme court to affirm the decree of the federal court for the district of Minnesota, finding the International Harvester company a combination in restraint of trade and ordering it dissolved.

Steamer Seven Seas Destroyed-Dutch Vessel Carrying Oil Seized by British Cruiser-Charged With Aiding Enemy.

London, April 3.-Two steamers were added on Thursday to the toll of those sunk by submarines and mines in the course of the German blockade. The French steamer Emma, bound from Dundalk, Ireland, to Havre, was torpedoed and sank in three minutes 12 miles off Beachey Head. Nineteen of her crew of 21 perished. The small steamer Seven Seas was also topedoed and sunk six miles off Beachey Head, Presumably by the same submarine. Eight men are reported drowned. The Seven Seas was owned by Leach & Co. of London.

The periscope of the submarine hardly had been sighted from the Emma when the torpedo from the underseas boat struck the Emma in the engine. No warning of any kind was given. The ship foundered in three minutes from the time it was struck.

A British destroyer subsequently picked up two men who had been in the water for a couple of hours, and at the same time recovered two bodies.

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from New Haven, a port in the English channel in Sussex, says a large Dutch cargo boat, the Lodewijk Van Nassau, has been brought into New Haven by two British torpedo boats under the suspicion that it has been supplying German submarines with fuel oil.

GEN. FUNSTON ON BORDER.

To Watch Situation During the Villa Attack on Matamoros.

Brownsville, Tex. April 1.—Gen. Frederick Funston arrived here on Tuesday from Fort Sam Houston. Tex., to watch over the border situation during the Villa attack on Matamoros. Three batteries of field artillery from San Antonio arrived. The United States artillery was brought here to guard against firing across the border, two persons having been wounded here during fighting last Salurday. Five hundred Carranza troops under Col. Miguel Samaniego and a Villa force of the same strength, commanded by General Trujillo, came into contact opposite San Bernardino, Ariz., 16 miles east of Douglas, Ariz. The fighting continued, and Samaniego, re-enforced by 400 men from Agua Prieta, prepared to be slowly forcing Trujillo back. Nine troops of United States cavalry belonging to the Second brigade were ordered out to observe the fighting.

GERMAN SUBMARINES SINK TWO BRITISH STEAMSHIPS

One Hundred and Thirty-Eight Persons Perish-Explosive Hurled at Steamer Before Boats Launched.

London, March 31.-Reports officially confirmed by the admiralty state that two British liners have been torpedoed and sunk by German submarines and a Dutch steamer sent to the bottom in a German mine field. Of the passengers and crews of the two liners 138 persons are missing. The crew of the Dutch steamer was saved. One of the German raiders was recognized as the U-28.

The African liner Falaba, carrying 140 passengers, was torpedoed and sunk off Milfordhaven, the admiralty announced on Monday. She is the first big passenger-carrying liner to fall victim to German submarine at-

Dispatches to her owners indicated that the death list of the African liner Falaba may amount to above 100, including more than forty passengers. A telegram from Cardiff said that 62 first-class and 34 second-class passengers have been saved and that nothing is known of the fate of nearly fifty more passengers. Only forty-six members of the Falaba's crew of nearly 120 have been landed at Cardiff.

Several of the liner's crew were killed by the explosion that wrecked her engine-room. It was now believed that other boatloads of passengers and crew were thrown into the water by the capsizing of their boats and went to the bottom.

Thirteen men of the crew of the Liverpool steamer Aguila were killed or drowned when the Aguila was torpedoed off Bishop islands, according to a dispatch received here from Fishguard.

The submarine commander gave the crew four minutes in which to leave the ship, but shot a torpedo while the boats were being put over the sides. The chief engineer and the boatswain were instantly killed by the explosion and 11 others were killed outright or were thrown into the water and drowned.

ADMIRAL FISKE QUITS

RESIGNATION AS NAVAL AID CAUSES SENSATION IN OFFI-CIAL CIRCLES.

IS REGARDED AS PROTEST

Held the Most Important Professional Position in the Navy-Told House Body U. S. Fleet Was Not Prepared

Washington, April 5.--A sensation was caused in naval circles on Friday when it became known that Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, aid for operations in the navy department, had tendered his resignation from that office and asked to be assigned to duty elsewhere. Admiral Fiske also asked to be relieved from duty as a member of the general board of the navy, of which Admiral Dewey is president.

Admiral Fiske tendered his resignation as aid for operations as a protest against the present administration of the naval establishment.

While the resignation of Admiral Fiske was not expected, there have been mutterings among naval officers recently that indicated great dissatisfaction with the manner in which the service was being conducted and the fleet being operated. As aid to operations, Admiral Fiske held the most important professional position in the navy, and was the senior member of the group of advisers that formed a sort of cabinet of the secretary of the navy. He retired because he felt he could not remain in that position with justice to himself or the department authorities. Admiral Fiske has felt keenly the growing lack of efficiency in the navy as a result of the adoption of policies disapproved by him and other high ranking officers. The admiral told the house naval committee that the American fleet was not prepared for war, and expressed the opinion that it could not be made ready under five years. This testimony was given last December, and at that time there was talk in naval circles that Admiral Fiske's views had not been pleasing to his superior officers, who claimed ability of making the organization a that the fleet was in a state of effl-

It is said that Secretary Daniels may abolish the aide system inaugurated by George von L. Meyer when he was at the head of the navy department. The last congress gave a legal status to the office of aid for operations. Either Rear Admiral Winslow or Captain Winterhalter will declamatory contest, first honors were be named for this position.

TWO NEUTRAL SHIPS SUNK

Dutch Steamer and Norwegian Bark Destroyed by Submarines-Trawlers Torpedoed.

London, April 5.-The Dutch steamer Schieland, bound from Hull for Rotterdam with a cargo of coal, was blown up 24 miles east southeast of Spurn in the North sea. The explosion occurred amidships and one of the crew was blown to pieces. The remainder of the crew of 16 took to the boats, the captain and seven men in one boat standing by the Schleland until it sank at dusk, when they were sighted by the Cornelia Glafina and taken aboard. The seven occupants of the other boat were also rescued. The Norwegian bark Nor, bound from Fredirkistad for Hull with a cargo of wood, was torpedoed west of Dogger bank by the German submarine U-20. The crew was rescued.

The submarine U-10 encountered 40 miles from the Tyne the North Shields trawlers Gloxiana and Jason and sunk them. The crews were saved.

The fishermen state that the commander of the U-10 treated them kindly, giving them hot coffee and tobacco. He spoke good English. He said he had been ordered to sink everything in sight.
